Tailor-made for your industry

In the oil and gas industry, safeguarding your employees' health makes sound commercial sense. You need to know they are fully covered, both on and offshore.

Should a member of your company fall ill, it's natural to want the very best health cover available - not only for their sake, but also for the smooth running of your business.

This is exactly what the Bupa International Oil and Gas plan can offer.

Wherever your employees live and work, whether outside their home country, in a remote location or a major city, they will have worldwide cover - including the USA at no extra cost.

For informed advice and support, your employees will also have instant telephone access from anywhere in the world to our multi-lingual team of dedicated health professionals.

Assistance Cover helps give you total reassurance

Should one of your workforce become seriously ill, injured or require in-patient treatment, you need to know they have access to the best medical attention available.

The quality of medical care varies throughout the world. Not every hospital has the medical facilities we consider necessary for our members. That's why we've introduced the Assistance Cover option, with two levels of cover to choose from:

Evacuation - straight to the nearest centre of medical excellence

This is an option for anyone concerned about the quality of local health care. We offer cover for emergency evacuation, if medically necessary, to the nearest centre of medical excellence equipped to deal with your employee's condition, wherever they are in the world.

Repatriation - opt to be treated in their home country

Our higher level of Assistance Cover gives you the choice of returning your staff to their national country of origin for treatment if, for medical reasons, the treatment is not available locally.
